

A GIFT TO THE WOMEN OF TENNESSEEFrom
The Castner-Knott Dry Goods Co.,
Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Mary A. Wilson
Ex-Cuisiniere to Queen Victoria of England, Pastry cook to the then Prince of Wales, later to King Edward VIII, Conductor of U. S. Naval Commissary School during War, Head of the largest Domestic Science School in America.

More is the demand of housekeepers now than ever before; the management of the home has become one of the Nation's problems, therefore, in placing Mrs. Wilson's lectures and demonstrations at the disposal of the State Fair management, the Castner-Knott Dry Goods Company is extending a distinct service to the entire State, and aiding in the National movement directed towards greater efficiency in housekeeping and home management.

Conducted in the
Home and Educational Department
TENNESSEE STATE FAIR

Monday, September 18, to Saturday, September 30, inclusive, at 12 o'clock, one hour and thirty minutes lecture and practical demonstration. Menus suggested and prepared, recipes given, a model kitchen arranged for Mrs. Wilson will be installed for this occasion.

"THE CROSS CUT"

That splendid continued story which we have been advertising in these columns for several weeks, "The Cross Cut", starts in this issue. Do not fail to read the opening chapters. It is a story laid in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado, connected with the working of a silver mine and is full of those interesting thrills that are so fascinating while carrying with it a fine atmosphere of right and justice.

It will not only prove of interest but it will help you to look on right and justice and honest actions under difficulties with more courage to do the right at all times. Don't fail to begin the story with the first chapters of this issue.
